Ann J. Corley, MS

Ann J. Corley MS is the owner of SageWorks, a holistic coaching and consulting business focused on helping individuals, businesses and organizations enhance their effectiveness. Ann has extensive knowledge of and skill in organizational and leadership development, strategic planning, and team building. She holds a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Business Administration and a Masters degree in Counseling Psychology. Her 30+ year career path includes experiences working in most all aspects of the private and public arena, including the profit and nonprofit business sector, academia, and health care. Ann has channeled those valuable experiences, as well as her own personal experiences of dealing with loss and change, into engaging and highly participatory workshops focused on helping participants better understand themselves and acquire the tools needed to live a more balanced and meaning-filled life.
